The Warburg Institute is one of the world’s leading centres for research and teaching on the interaction of ideas, images and society. Founded in Hamburg in the early twentieth century by Aby Warburg, and relocated to England as the Nazis rose to power in 1933, it has been part of the University of London since 1944—and, since 1994, a founding member of its School of Advanced Study (SAS).

The Warburg is concerned with the survival and transmission of culture across disciplinary, national and chronological borders. It has historic strengths in the afterlife of antiquity during the Renaissance and Enlightenment; in histories and theories of cultural memory; in the relationship between science, magic and the arts; and in the interface of East and West. The Warburg has been home to some of the most influential scholars in the fields it covers (including Fritz Saxl, Ernst Cassirer, Erwin Panofsky, Ernst Gombrich, Frances Yates and Michael Baxandall), and has generated some of the most innovative paradigms in intellectual and cultural history (including those of Carlo Ginzburg, Giorgio Agamben and Georges Didi-Huberman). According to the Open Education Database, the Institute’s open-stack Library is one of the ‘20 Libraries that Changed the World’: along with the Photo Collection and Archive, it serves as an engine for interdisciplinary research, postgraduate teaching and a prestigious events and publication programme.

The Institute Library and its collections are open to academics and postgraduate students of the University of London and to teachers and research students from any universities and institutions. Scholars and researchers who have no institutional affiliation but have an interest in any of the areas in which we hold materials may also apply for admission. Information on how to apply can be found at our website http://warburg.libguides.com/library

The Institute accepts research postgraduate students for the degree of PhD by dissertation only, which can be studied either at the Institute full- or part-time or via distance learning. It also offers two, taught MA Programmes: the MA in Cultural, Intellectual and Visual History and the MA in Art History, Curatorship and Renaissance Culture offered in collaboration with the National Gallery, which can be studied either full- or part-time. In addition to this from the 2019-20 academic year, the Institute will offer two Postgraduate Certificates and two MRes Programmes: Cultural, Intellectual and Visual History and Art History and Renaissance Culture, all of which can be studied either full- or part-time. Seminars, public lectures and informal talks are given throughout the year and regular international colloquia organized. Publications include the Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes, and four series of texts and monographs.

Information on the Institute and its activities is available at our website https://warburg.sas.ac.uk/

DIRECTOR’S REPORT

I have now completed my second year at the Warburg Institute—and what a year it was.

The ‘Warburg Renaissance’ project that will transform our much-loved (if long-neglected) building in Bloomsbury passed a number of important milestones. We now have a full design for the renovation of existing spaces and extension into the courtyard: these improvements will deliver a new roof and improved climate control throughout the building; 20 years’ growing room for our books; secure storage and reading rooms for our archives and special collections; more flexible space for our own staff and students; enhanced facilities for external partners; and a public-facing hub on the ground floor that will enable the original mixture of display, discovery and debate found in the Kulturwissenschaftliche Bibliothek Warburg in Hamburg (including a café, a gallery and a digital lab). We have received planning permission from Camden Council and approval from the University of London’s Board of Trustees. And we have secured a number of gifts that take us much closer to the full amount needed to achieve the project’s ambitious goals, bringing us to roughly £12m out of the total budget of £14.5m: these include a generous lead donation of £1m from the Hamburg-based Hermann Reemtsma Stiftung and major grants from the Wolfson Foundation, Garfield Weston Foundation, Marie-Louise von Motesiczky Charitable Trust, and American Friends of the Warburg Institute. We continue to feel grateful for the support of Warburg family and friends, and continue to feel fortunate in our choice of architects (Haworth Tompkins, who recently added the UK’s Refurbishment Architect of the Year Award to their 2014 Stirling Prize).

We are planning to keep as much of the building open as possible during the construction, which is currently scheduled to begin in Autumn 2020 and finish in Summer 2022. The project will help us to expand our teaching programmes and improve our ability to host externally funded research projects—and both areas made great strides this year. We recruited to our postgraduate programmes at record levels, and introduced our inaugural Summer School—which attracted 20 students coming from a wide range of professional and disciplinary backgrounds and from as far afield as Mexico, Japan and South Africa. Our international research group, Bilderfahrzeuge: The Legacy of Aby Warburg and the Future of Iconology, began its second five-year phase with full financial support from the German Federal Ministry for Research and Education. The Nomis-funded BIAS project led by Professor Manos Tsakiris enjoyed its third year at the Warburg, producing cutting-edge research at the intersection of neuroscience and visual culture; our Kress-funded fellows continued to advance our knowledge of the Photographic Collection and Iconographic Database; and John Tresch, our Mellon-funded chair in the History of Art, Science and Folk Practice has begun to work with postdoctoral fellow Matthew Drage to extend the interdisciplinary agenda for which the Warburg has always been known. Last year we launched a new joint fellowship with Villa I Tatti (Harvard’s Florentine-based centre for Renaissance Studies), and also rolled out a new short-term fellowship in association with the Italian Cultural Institute and devoted to ‘Cultural Heritage and Natural Disaster.’

As we think about developing our own space for exhibitions, we continue to work with partners on displays elsewhere. In April we attended the opening of a show on Warburg’s aesthetic theories at the Museo Nacional de Bellas Artes in Buenos Aires, which coincided with a week-long conference on Warburg at the Argentinean National Library. In May we co-curated an exhibition at the Zentralinstitut in Munich, devoted to the Warburg Institute’s long history of photographic and traveling exhibitions, culminating in the 1941 project on ‘English Art and the Mediterranean.’ And we entered into an exciting agreement with the Haus der Kulturen der Welt [HKW] in Berlin to reconstruct Aby Warburg’s legendary Bilderatlas Mnemosyne—using Warburg’s original materials—for the first time since 1929. Nearly 1000 items will be displayed on more than 60 panels (along with supporting materials) for 3 months next spring; and we have also used the occasion to carry out a complete campaign of conservation and photography in support of a lavish facsimile (to be published by Hatje Cantz).

Our event and publication programmes continued to engage a diverse community, helping us to meet our government-funded mission of Research Promotion and Facilitation. In May we hosted a two-day conference on the legacy of Frances Yates, and in December welcomed many old friends back to the Institute for a workshop run by Florian Ebeling on the afterlife of Ancient Egypt. The event paid tribute to Jan and Aleida Assmann, and led to our being given the first annual Education Award from the Museo Liceo Egipcio in Leon, Spain. We initiated a very popular series of ‘Curatorial Conversations’ (featuring exhibition projects at the National Gallery, Strawberry Hill, Metropolitan Museum of Art and Fitzwilliam), and hosted the annual Gombrich Lectures by Kate Lowe from QMUL. That series is sponsored by Princeton University Press who this year published the first two books based on our lectures, Jonathan Bate’s How the Classics Made Shakespeare and Marjorie Curry Woods’ Weeping for Dido: The Classics in the Medieval Classroom.

Our new Digital Communications Officer Hannah Freeman helped us to launch our new blog, Mnemosyne; and our tireless Publications Officer Jenny Boyle worked with editors Charles Burnett and Jill Kraye to produce several books as well as the 81st volume of the Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes. I myself joined Ian MacLean as General Editor of the Oxford-Warburg Studies series, and I would like to thank my predecessor, Charles Hope, for his many years of service.

This past summer we said goodbye to our long-serving Photographer Ian Jones, and have added Mark Amies as our Scanner Operator and Rachel Chapman as our Conservator. We welcomed Jon Millington, who brings experience and energy to our growing events programme. And we were happy to hire Lewis Jones as the Institute’s first Development Manager, as a joint appointment with the University of London’s Development Team. Lewis is helping us with all aspects of engagement with Warburg Family and Friends: he helped us to create the Warburg Family Circle (which now has more than 50 members from at least 6 countries) and has played a crucial role in planning ‘Warburg Renaissance’ events with Edmund de Waal in Venice, Stephen Greenblatt in New York and Sir Charles Saumarez Smith here in London.

There were changes, too, on the Warburg’s Councils and Trusts. In July 2019 a number of people cycled off of the Institute’s Advisory Council, and we welcomed Horst Bredekamp (Humboldt University, Berlin), Anne-Élisabeth Buxtorf (INHA, Paris), Richard Wistreich (Royal College of Music) and Caroline Campbell (National Gallery) to that group. The Warburg Charitable Trust has been revived and expanded, with Christopher Rossbach providing exemplary leadership and bringing in Nagila Warburg, Daniel Peltz and Michelle Mahlke to join Loyd Grossman and Brendan Finucane as new trustees. Evelyn Welch continues to serve on both the Warburg Charitable Trust and the Saxl Fund, and remains our ever-helpful chair of the Advisory Council. The Warburg Institute is lucky to have such strong support.

And I, finally, have been very fortunate to work alongside a gifted and committed Senior Management Team. At the University of London’s School of Advanced Study (within which the Warburg sits), we have received exemplary counsel from Professor Rick Rylance and Ms Elaine Walters, while our interim Vice-Chancellor Professor Peter Kopelman has offered his personal support for our fundraising efforts. I am grateful to colleagues throughout the School—and especially to the staff, students and readers at the Warburg—for everything they have done to make the Warburg Institute an international beacon for innovative research.

ADVISORY COUNCIL

Membership of The Advisory Council of the Institute in 2018-19 was as follows:

Ex Officio Members
The Director of the Institute:
   Professor Bill Sherman
The Institute Manager:
   Dr Madisson Brown (from 12 February 2018)
The Dean or Deputy Dean of the School of Advanced Study:
   Professor Rick Rylance/Professor Philip Murphy
The Director of the Institute of Philosophy:
   Professor Barry Smith
Two representatives of the Warburg family:
   Professor John Prag (to 08 November 2018); Professor Jonathan Prag (from 8 November 2018)
   Marie Warburg, M.D.
The Director of the Courtauld Institute of Art:
   Professor Deborah Swallow

Appointed Members
Not more than nine Professors, Readers or Teachers of the University, appointed by the Advisory Council for periods of six years:
   Mr Hugo Chapman
   Professor David d’Avray
   Professor Gordon Campbell
   Dr Antony Eastmond
   Professor Judith Herrin
   Professor Sarah Hutton
   Professor Peter Pormann
   Dr David Rundle
   Professor Evelyn Welch (Chair)
   Professor Susan Wiseman
   Professor Richard Wistreich (from 15 November 2018)
   Professor Greg Woolf

Up to two members drawn from partners/financial stakeholders not covered by (2) but associated with the discipline:
   Dr Caroline Campbell (from 15 November 2018)

Not more than two members of the Academic Staff of the Institute elected by and from among the Committee of Academic Staff:
   Dr Rembrandt Duits
   Dr Joanne Anderson

Not more than two individuals representing academic libraries appointed by the Advisory Council for periods of six years:
   Dr Anne-Élizabeth Buxtorf (from 4 December 2018)
   Professor David McKitterick

Not more than three persons whose interests lie in the special field of the Warburg Institute:
   Ms Elizabeth Stephen (to 23 January 2019)
   Professor Horst Bredekamp (from 15 November 2018)

Not more than two representatives of the national postgraduate research community:
   Mr George Bartlett (from 23 January 2019)
   Ms Lydia Goodson (from 8 November 2018)

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT

Staff

We appointed Mark Amies as our new scanner operator in October 2018 on a 1-year contract. Mark has been involved with photography and imaging for many years, working principally at photographic agencies. He moved into the field of digitisation about five years ago, and has experience of using a number of different capture devices. Over the past year he has been scanning books relating to the history of magic and science, which were acquired at the Kulturwissenschaftliche Bibliothek Warburg, building upon the work started by Jacqueline Etchells and Emma Campbell during their time here.

We appointed in June 2019 a Conservator on a temporary position. Rachel Chapman received her MA in Conservation from Camberwell College of Arts and went to work at the London Metropolitan Archives for 4.5 years. She comes to us from the London Library where she worked for nearly 15 years. She has experience in book and archive conservation and in overall preservation including environmental monitoring, disaster response and Integrated Pest Management. She is undertaking a survey of the conservation and preservation conditions of the Institute’s collection, and helps us preparing the refurbishment of the Institute.

Our Graduate Library trainees in 2018-2019 were Friederike Wolpert and Manuela Pallotto Strickland. Manuela left us in March 2019 for a permanent Library assistant position at King’s College London and Friederike ended her contract in August to become a Library assistant at Royal Holloway. Claudia Daniotti and Laura Nuvoloni replaced them as temporary Reading Room assistants.

The Library has appointed Master and PhD students from the School of Advanced Study and UCL as Shelvers, labeller and information assistants to help us on the day-to-day work in the library and to work on projects relating to the preparation of the forthcoming Institute refurbishment.

Collection Development

A total of 2,173 printed items (2,124 books and 49 offprints) were added to our collection, compared to 2,944 such items (2,870 books and 74 offprints) the previous year. We have added three new journals: Emblematica, Manuscript Cultures and Mediterranea, and we acquired the most recent update to Brill’s Studies in intellectual history online.

We purchased 72% of the printed books which were accessioned (1,556), and another 6% (143) were acquired through exchanges; while 22% (425 books and 49 offprints) were presented as donations.

In order to maintain and develop its collections, the Library is grateful for the very generous financial bequests which it has received from Professor Albert Lovett, Dr Margaret Gibson and Mrs Elizabeth Gibson, the estates of Dr Heidi Heimann and of O. Judith Dundas. Its holdings are also enhanced by the steady stream of donated books and periodicals, and of monetary gifts intended for the Library’s collection development fund, which are received over the course of each year.

Among the many institutions, both in the UK and abroad, which have donated publications to the Library over the past year, we would like to give special thanks to: The Arnaldi de Villanova Opera Medica Omnia Editorial Board (Barcelona); The Art Longa Editorial Board (Valencia); Associazione “L’Italia fenice”; Bibliopolis - Edizioni di Filosofia e Scienze (Naples); The British Library; The Cassiano dal Pozzo Project; Comune di Mantova; Dr Williams’s Library; The Folklore Society (London); La Fondation Maison de l’Italie (Paris); Fondazione Credito Bergamasco; Fonds Mercator (Brussels); Georg Olms Verlag (Hildesheim); The German Historical Institute (London); Grisebach GmbH (Berlin); Institut
We spent 71% of the Library’s overall collection development budget on printed material, and 29% on electronic resources (e-books, e-journals, online databases, and various server hosting, storage and support costs). This is a very slight change from last year (when the figures were respectively 74% and 26%), which certainly reflects the rapid growth over the past five years in our provision of a wide variety of electronic material, not only to our registered readers (who can access the many online resources which are available from within the Warburg Institute on the Library’s web terminals), but also to the wider research community in the form of our ever-growing Warburg Digital Library, which is freely accessible to anyone from anywhere in the world with an internet connection. The continuing weakness of the UK pound against the Euro and the US dollar (the currencies in which many of our print acquisitions are priced) is again the principal reason why we have purchased fewer printed monographs this year than we did either last year or in 2016-2017. Of the proportion (71%) spent on printed material, books accounted for 59% and periodicals for 41% of this expenditure (compared to 62% and 38% respectively last year).

Readers

This year we issued 1,094 new tickets and renewed 1,232, making a total of 2,326 readers. These figures include 553 readers from abroad (281 academic staff, 213 students and 59 from other overseas institutions) and 486 University of London postgraduate students.

Binding

We sent 120 items out for hardbinding and 771 for Lyfguarding.

We wish to record our thanks for a donation generously given to the Library by the London Art History Society. It was agreed to use this gift to bind a rare Early modern book that was recently presented to the library.

The Warburg Library Online

We are able to develop the Digital Library and regularly add new material to it thanks to the Dan David Prize, received by the Warburg Library in 2002 ‘for its exemplary activities in supporting the human quest for understanding of the past as a touchstone for the future’. We finished digitising the Magic and Science section from Warburg’s Kulturwissenschaftliche Bibliothek. The Digital Library had 9944 unique users and 1.5 million pages views.

We have added to our online Library Research Guides new thematic guides to help our readers investigate electronic and printed material useful for their research.

We have been working during the course of the year on our new project, the Warburg Library Commons, which will be launched officially very soon. It hosts digital publications related to the Warburg’s collections on open access basis and arranges them according to the unique classification system of the Library. It was developed on Samvera/Hyrax open-source software in collaboration with CoSector at the University of London.

Outreach

During 2018-19, we gave over thirty tours of the Library and Photographic Collection to class groups, organised through their tutors. We held workshops for Warburg students on sourcing reference material and we offered two training sessions to all SAS PhD students, in collaboration with the Photographic Collection.

We participated in the 2018 Senate House Library History Day, which offers students and scholars an opportunity to discover libraries specialising in history.

Professional activities and networking

Members of staff attended visits and workshops offered by CPD25 (a group of libraries within the M25) and courses offered by the London Rare Books School (Institute of English Studies). Richard Gartner and Raphaële Mouren attended the workshop organised by the Paul Mellon Centre on the digitisation of its Photo archive. Richard Gartner is a representative of the Warburg Institute in the Pharos group, an international network of photo archives working towards the development of a shared online platform. The Library continued to be represented by Clare Lappin, Nessa Malone and Philip Young on the London-wide subject committees and network meetings for Byzantine Studies, Classics, History of Art and History. The Librarian attended the regular meetings of the School of Advanced Study Librarians, Senate House Librarian and the Pro-Dean for Libraries and went to the 8th International Conference of Art Libraries in Amsterdam.

PHOTOGRAPHIC COLLECTION REPORT

During the academic year 2018-19, the Iconographic Database has grown by another 10,000 images, and has now, at ca 100,000 images, reached a size equivalent to one quarter of the analogue collection. The growth this year has been due in large part to Lorenza Gay, who continued her work on the digitisation of mythological manuscripts funded by the Kress Foundation. Lorenza’s contract was set to expire on 7 January of 2019, but thanks to the decreasing value of the pound sterling, the sum in dollars awarded by the Kress Foundation allowed us to extend her appointment till 17 March – time she used to add a further 2,000 photos to the database. Lorenza has not only created descriptive metadata for the manuscript photos, but has also extensively re-organised the database section on the Historia Troiana, enhancing its accessibility.

During 2018-19, the Iconographic Database had 31,114 users from almost every country across the globe with the top five being:

- US: 6,746 users
- UK: 4,663 users
- Germany: 3,090 users
Further material was added to the database by Dr Berthold Kress, working from Germany, and by a group of volunteers who stayed for shorter or longer periods: Sophia Adams, Beatrice Bordin, Alexis Economou, Signe Havsteen, Sarah Kingham, Kori Mason, Elena Miserotti, Maria Vittoria Pellini, Caroline Ritchie, Gisele Santos and Lauren Walker. We are grateful to all of them for their help.

It is with great regret that the Photographic Collection has seen the departure of Institute Photographer Ian Jones, who retired on 31 July 2019. For forty-two years, the Collection was able to rely on Ian’s photographic expertise, initially primarily for the processing of external orders for photographs and slides, but in recent years also for the digitisation of entire sections of the paper collection. Ian also travelled to photograph actual art work on behalf of the Collection, most recently stained glass in York Minster, which he invariably did to the highest standards. His skills as a photographer, his colourful personality, and his acerbic humour are sorely missed.

The Photographic Collection has received an increasing amount of interest from art historians and artists working on the nature of archives and the contributions to art history of Aby Warburg. In April Dr Taylor gave a talk on the history and iconographic structure of the Collection at a conference on Aby Warburg held at the Biblioteca Nacional in Buenos Aires, and he has been invited to give a similar talk to a conference on iconographic collections in Beijing in October. From March to May the Collection worked together with Central St Martins, University of the Arts, to provide a course on the archiving of images for second year students in their BA Fine Art 2D pathway. In the week of 8 July 2019, the Photographic Collection played a central role in the summer school on the Bilderatlas Mnemosyne, which the Institute organised for the first time this year. Students of the summer school were taught about the history of the collection and its current digitisation, and used materials from the Collection to create their own picture atlas panels.

The Photographic Collection is grateful to have received a gift of photographs of fourteenth-century Italian sculpture from Brendan Cassidy, Emeritus Professor of Art History at St Andrews. This material is currently being incorporated into the Iconographic Database with Professor Cassidy’s kind assistance.

Institute funding for the re-design of the Iconographic Database, announced in the annual report of last year, remains pending.

As ever, we thank Jennifer Montagu and Elizabeth McGrath for their support and advice.
ARCHIVE REPORT

As every year, the Archivist and Assistant Archivist have been engaged in activities to promote the Archive collection (including Institute’s ‘Open Days’ on 6 December 2018, and 21 March 2019). They have explained the nature of the Archive holdings and offered longer and shorter introductions on Warburg, his work and the history of the Institute including special events in the context of fundraising activities for the Building Project. In addition, both the Archivist and Assistant Archivist contributed significantly to teaching the Inaugural Warburg Institute Summer School in July 2018.

Archive Users

A large amount of the Archivist’s and Assistant Archivist’s time was devoted to the daily services to Archive users and prospective user, on site and online. 91 scholars, (among them Research Associates of the Bilderfahrzeuge Group), consulted the collection in 2018-2019. All visitors received assistance on site with navigating the archive, or (if requested) advice on their projects. In many cases both Archivist and Assistant Archivist shared their expertise in order to facilitate the research in the collection or to help prepare a visit. In 2018-19 the Calmview online database recorded 1,382 session visits in which 53,798 records were viewed.

Photo Orders

The Archive has processed 98 orders for reproductions of photographs held in the collections.

Staff & Volunteers

We are grateful to the German Ministry of Science and Education/Max Weber Foundation for their ongoing support of the Archive via the Bilderfahrzeuge Project that currently funds the position of Assistant Archivist, held by Dr Eckart Marchand. From February to April Caroline Button has worked in the Archive as volunteer. She helped with cataloguing the post 1933 correspondence collection electronically (including compiling a manual for future volunteers) and with the maintenance of the book collection held in the Archive. Since March 2018 Lorenza Gay holds the position of Exhibition Assistant to help with preparing the reconstruction of the last version of Warburg’s Bilderatlas for the major show at Haus der Kulturen der Welt (HKW) in Berlin in 2020.

Cataloguing

In the year 2018-19 we have made much progress with cataloguing. In particular, the revision of the catalogue of Aby Warburg’s papers was finished, including the compilation of an entirely new catalogue of Section IV. Section IV contains material related to Warburg’s engagement with institutions and projects, educational, cultural and political, in Hamburg, Germany and abroad. We have introduced a new hierarchical order and catalogued the material at item level (i.e. similar to Warburg’s working papers). This new catalogue clarifies in each section the roles Warburg played in the various institutions. Warburg Archive staff and volunteers also continued adding data from the General Correspondence files to our Calm database, searchable online through Calmview. We are grateful to Jonathan Rolls for his continuous help with updating the software and uploading additions to the electronic catalogue to the server. The number of records viewed during this session was double as high as in the past session.
Project Cataloguing

Since May 2019 Samuel Thompson, a PhD student from KCL, is helping to catalogue the estate of Alphons A Barb, the Institute's former librarian (who came as a refugee to London). The compilation an item-level catalogue of Barb’s papers, quite advanced at the end of this session, was realised in collaboration with the German Literature Archive (DLA) in Marbach, funded by their Global Archives project.

Warburg edition

As time permitted, work the final editorial work on the edition of Aby Warburg's Lectures and Essays (vol. III.1 of his collected works) continued during 2018-19.

Donations

Thirteen books and offprints were received as donations from either former users or publishers who purchased images held in the Archive; they have been added to our catalogues of books and articles held in the Archive. All books in this collection have now been catalogued in the SAS OPAC.

Exhibitions:

Thirteen items from the Archive collection went on loan to Munich for the exhibition Image Journeys: the Warburg Institute and a British Art History at the Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte, on display from 30 May to 21 June 2019. The Archivist spent much time on preparations for the major exhibition “Aby Warburg’s Bilderatlas Mnemosyne. The Original”, organized by the Haus der Kulturen der Welt (HKW) in Berlin, in collaboration with the Warburg Institute. The Institute received funds from our partner institution to employ Lorenza Gay as Exhibition Assistant. During the session almost 90% of all images were identified in either the Institute’s Photographic Collection and Archive or in the collection of the Hamburg Planetarium. All images held by the Institute underwent conservation, beginning in July 2019. The Institute hired a specialist photo and paper conservator, Ashleigh Brown, for this job.

Presentations of Archival Materials:

In connection with the “Word and Image in Times of Crisis” event the Archivist organized (together with Steffen Haug of the Bilderfahrzeuge Research Group) a presentation of and introduction to archival materials. Materials related to Aby Warburg’s long essay “Pagan-Antique Prophecy in Words and Images the Age of Luther”, published in 1920. The presentation was held twice, first on Saturday 16 December 2018 and again on 21 February 2019.

Publishing Agreements:

As in past years, the Archivist has negotiated publishing agreements relating to manuscripts held in the Warburg Institute Archive.

RESEARCH PROMOTION AND FACILITATION

RESEARCH PROJECTS AND EXPERTISE

Joanne Anderson
In November 2018, Joanne Anderson (Co-I, Warburg Institute), Mick Finch (PI – Central St Martins, UAL) and Johannes Von Müller (Official Project Partner, Bilderfahrzeuge International Research Project) were successful in their bid for an AHRC Research Networking Grant. The project, A Vision for Europe – Academic Action and Responsibility in Times of Crises, which focuses on the material archive of the Warburg Institute exhibition, English Art and the Mediterranean, held in 1941, commenced on 7 January 2019. Two of the five network meetings have been held so far, with the third taking place in late September. Major outputs to date: an exhibition, Bilder auf Wanderschaft: Das Warburg Institute und eine britische Kunstgeschichte at the Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte in Munich, 29 May – 26 June 2019; the accompanying catalogue (published in English), Image Journeys: the Warburg Institute and the Mediterranean, held in 1941, commenced on 7 January 2019. Two of the five network meetings have been held so far, with the third taking place in late September. Major outputs to date: an exhibition, Bilder auf Wanderschaft: Das Warburg Institute und eine britische Kunstgeschichte at the Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte in Munich, 29 May – 26 June 2019; the accompanying catalogue (published in English), Image Journeys: the Warburg Institute and a British Art History (Passau, Dieter Klinger Verlag, 2019), edited by Anderson, Finch and Von Müller. In November 2019, the British School at Rome will host the network for its fourth meeting, including a public lecture, colloquium, Ruins in the Archive: Constructing Visual Histories in Photography and Broadcast Media, and related exhibition of archival documents from the Warburg Institute and the BSR (13-14 November).
Official Project Partners: Bilderfahrzeuge: Aby Warburg’s Legacy and the Future of Iconology; Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte, Munich; the British School at Rome.
From January to April 2019, Joanne Anderson served as an application assessor for the Art History subject area group for the London Arts and Humanities Partnership, which funds doctoral students.

Charles Burnett
Charles Burnett continued to be the Warburg Representative of the ERC project ‘The origin and early development of philosophy in tenth-century al-Andalus: the impact of ill-defined materials and channels of transmission (PhilAnd)’, a partner in and assessor of the Bayerische Akademie project Ptolemaeus Arabus et Latinus (Munich), and on the advisory board of ‘Representation and Reality, the Aristotelian Tradition’, at the University of Gothenburg. Charles was also Editor (with Jill Kraye) of the two Warburg series, Studies and Texts and Warburg Colloquia, Founder editor (with Pedro Mantas España) of the monograph series Arabica veritas, Founder editor (with Juan Pedro Monferrer-Sala and Andrea Robiglio) of Mediterranea. International Journal on the Transfer of Knowledge, Founder editor (with Michael Lackner) of the International Journal of Divination and Prognostication. Charles was awarded an Honorary Doctorate, University of Gothenburg (19 October 2018).

Richard Gartner
Richard Gartner is a member of the editorial board for METS (Metadata Encoding and Transmission Standard) metadata standard and a member of Pharos (International Consortium of Photo Archives) data modelling working group. He attended Pharos consortium meetings The Hague (8 October 2018) and Marburg (21/22 June 2019). Richard is also Chair of LAHP Subject Area Group on Information Communications and Technology and a reviewer for International Journal of Metadata Semantics and Ontologies.

Alastair Hamilton
Alastair Hamilton continued as the editor of the Brill series The History of Oriental Studies and as a member of the editorial boards of Erudition and the Republic of Letters and Church History and Religious Culture. He also provided advice on publications for Brill as well as providing advice on publications for the Journal of Ecclesiastical History, Oxford University Press and the Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes. He was involved in the preparation of the special number of the Journal of Qurʾan in Western Europe, edited by Jan Loop.

Jill Kraye
Jill Kraye continued as an editor of the Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes and of the two book series: Warburg Institute Colloquia and Warburg Institute Studies and Texts. She is also one of the editors of the International Journal of the Classical Tradition and is on the advisory boards of: Albertiana; Bruniana & Campanelliana; British Journal for the History of Philosophy; Erasmus of Rotterdam Society Yearbook; History of Humanities; Lias; Rinascimento; I Tatti Renaissance Library; Oxford Francis Bacon; Renascentia: Studi e opere di storia della filosofia del Rinascimento; Scientiae: ‘Disciplines of Knowing in the Early Modern World’; Stanford Encyclopedia of Philosophy; and History of Classical Scholarship. Professor Kraye served on a Flemish Research Council Expert Panel on History and Archaeology and continued as a member of the European Science Foundation College of Expert Reviewers and of the Panizzi Selection Committee (British Library).

Sara Miglietti
Throughout the period September 2018 – August 2019 Sara continued working on two parallel book projects: an intellectual and cultural history of ideas of environmental influence in early modern Europe and the colonial Atlantic (The Empire of Climate, full manuscript to be submitted to Cambridge University Press in November 2019); and a comprehensive study of philosophical and scientific self-translations in early modern France (Self-Translation in Renaissance France: Writing Bilingually from Calvin to Descartes, under contract with Routledge, due September 2021). In connection to this second project, Sara is currently developing (with David Lines from Warwick) a major grant application on philosophical translation in early modern Italy and France, due later in the autumn. If funded, the project will run for three years between the Warburg and Warwick, with further project partners in Oxford and Paris. A pilot project, co-funded by the British Society for the History of Science, the Society for French Studies, and the Society for Renaissance Studies, allowed us to organise a one-day conference on ‘Writing Bilingually in Early Modern Europe’ at the Warburg Institute on 14 June 2019, with speakers coming from France, Switzerland, Germany, and other UK institutions. Sara has also sat on the Editorial Board of Rinascimento since July 2019.

Raphaële Mouren
Raphaële Mouren co-organised with Professor John O’Brien the annual French Renaissance annual workshop, Thinking, Feeling, Knowing in Early Modern France, The Warburg Institute, 1 February, and with Michèle Clément (Lyon 2), the Annual Workshop Bibliyon, livre et création littéraire à Lyon au XVIe siècle, Lyon, 28 June (funded by IRHIM and Centre Gabriel Naudé). She jointly convened the seminar ‘History of Libraries’, sponsored by the Institute of English Studies, the Institute of Historical Research, the Library & Information History Group of CILIP and the Warburg Institute. She is co-director of the School of Advanced Study programme ‘The Book and Print initiative’ and coorganised the programme of lectures over the year. Dr Raphaële Mouren was co-convenor, with Richard Cooper (Oxford) of the project Le livre illustré à Lyon au XVIe siècle. Including the public library of Lyon, the Centre Gabriel Naudé, the Bodleian Library and the University of Oxford, the project was selected in the funding campaign of Equipex BibliSSima (French Government ‘Investissements d’avenir’ funded) and benefited for 3 years from a one-year academic assistant, Dr Barbara Tramelli, in charge of describing in the Warburg Institute Iconographic Database the illustrations in books printed in Lyon in the 16th century. The project ended in September 2019. Raphaële was Director of Publication of Réforme, Humanisme, Renaissance, a member of the Editorial Board of Histoire et civilisation du livre and the Advisory Board of the Journal of the Warburg and Courtauld Institutes. She served on the Scientific Councils of the funded project Biblissima (Equipex programme, Agence nationnale de la recherche) and of the ECR funded project Middlebrow Enlightenment: Disseminating Ideas, Authors and Texts in Europe (1665-1820); she was appointed external member of the Scientific Board, Institut National d’Histoire de l’Art. She was member of the peer review college, AHRC and she was chair of one of the peer review Panel boards of the London Art and Humanities Partnership programme. She served in the School of Advanced Study Bursaries Committee. She was a member of the viva committee for the Habilitation à diriger des recherches of Dr Florence Bistagne, Avignon University, and for the PhD of Helen O’Neill, UCL. She was appointed external examiner in the MLIS, UCL. London. Dr Raphaële Mouren was also a fellow at the Herzog-August-Bibliothek (Wolfenbüttel) in May 2019.

Alessandro Scafi
Alessandro Scafi is a founding member of the International Society for the History of the Map and a member of Future for Religious Heritage (FHR), the Centro Interdipartimentale di Ricerca Sulla Civiltà Medievale e Rinascimentale (CIMER), the Sapienza University of Rome Network, the Renaissance Society of America, the Association of Italian Scientists in the UK, the British Association for Islamic Studies, the Internationale Gesellschaft für Theologische Mediävistik (IGTM). He is also a member of the Comitato scientifico of the Istituto di Studi Rinascimentali, Ferrara. Alessandro also participated in the project The Contemplative Complex: Health, Community, Cosmology, led by John Tresh and Matthew Drage as well as participating in Asset and the City, by Tizia Antonomaso, Blue Financial Communication, channel 512 of Sky and 260 digital terrestrial and ‘L’enigma della lunetta’, L’Osservatore Romano (28 October 2018), p. 5:

Claudia is a member of the Board of Editors of Aby Warburg, Gesammelte Schriften, Studienausgabe, as well as being a member of the London Palaeography Teachers Group and the AIM25 Consortium of Archives in London.
PUBLIC ENGAGEMENT

The Institute Facebook page has risen to over 12,200 subscribers while our Twitter account is followed by over 7,300 subscribers. These social media sites kept followers informed about our events, exhibitions and other news. The Institute website was used by over 93,400 people between 01 August 2018 and 31 July 2019.

EVENTS

2018-2019 saw a number of new events initiatives, including the launch of two lecture series. Curatorial Conversations invited representatives from institutions and collections with a global reach to share knowledge, experience and insights with new, vocationally-engaged audiences. Participants included Caroline Campbell (National Gallery) on Mantegna and Bellini; Dr Silvia Davoli on the lost treasures of Strawberry Hill; Dr Melanie Holcomb (Met, New York) on the problems and opportunities of exhibiting material from a variety of cultures and times; and Luke Syson on the challenges of managing the Fitzwilliam Museum, Cambridge. Cosimo I de’ Medici and Granducal Florence brought together scholars from across the humanities to discuss, in a paired-lecture format, the influence of the first Grand Duke of Tuscany on the development of 16th century Florentine art, architecture, politics and culture, in the 500th anniversary year of his birth.

The continuing Director’s Series featured presentations by Rita Copeland (Pennsylvania) on Aristotle’s Rhetoric and the Medieval Preacher; Frederic Kaplan and Isabella di Lenardo (EPFL Lausanne) on the Venice Time Machine project, which aims to represent a searchable history of Venice through the digitization of the city’s archives; Jérémie Koering (CNRS/Centre André Chastel) on art historians’ drawings as epistemic tools; Carlo Ginzburg on Ernesto de Martino and Aby Warburg; Katherine Jansen (Catholic University of America) on peace and penance in late medieval Italy; and Jumpha Lahiri in conversation with Bill Sherman on “Risk and Bob Dylan”.

Throughout the year the Bilderfahrzeuge Project offered a series of public lectures on studies in the migrations of images, objects, ideas and texts. The spring term 2019 saw a trio of lectures on Image Economies, examining images as capital, currency and media of exchange. A lecture and roundtable discussion, with an accompanying exhibition on Aby Warburg’s work with images and media, entitled Word and Image in Times of Crisis compared the manipulation and propagandisation of visual images in the contemporary environment of “fake news” with 16th-century battles between freethinking and dogma. And summer 2019 saw three Gombrich Lectures by Professor Kate Lowe (QMUL) on ‘Global acquisitions from the Portuguese trading empire in Renaissance Italy’, delivered to full-house audiences on three consecutive evenings (19, 20 and 21 June 2019).

Three very popular and wide-ranging conferences on philosophical and cultural enquiry relocated to the larger spaces of the Chancellor’s Hall, Senate House, during this year. Nachleben and the Cultural Memory of Ancient Egypt (7 December 2018), hosted for Aegyptiaca, the Journal of the History of the Reception of Ancient Egypt, took as its starting point Aby Warburg’s ideas of the “Nachleben der Antike”; Walter Benjamin and Shakespeare (28/29 November 2018) examined the emblematic position of Shakespeare in Benjamin’s thinking and writing; and Frances A. Yates: Work and Legacy (30/31 May 2019) invited former colleagues, students and readers of the influential Warburg scholar to reappraise her extensive contribution to art history, Renaissance studies, hermeticism and the history of science.
A number of events geared specifically towards postgraduates included New Dialogues in Art History (26 September 2018), with presentations from the next generation of art historians on their ongoing research; Mnemonic Waves (15 November 2018) investigated the transmission of Aby Warburg’s thinking down to the present. The seminar series Erasmus and Luther and Free Will was designed to introduce postgraduates students to the thinking on agency, choice and truth underpinning early modern Christian theology, while the Work in Progress seminar continued to offer a peer forum for Warburg research students to share their work with each other.

Two successful and well-attended Open Days, on 6 December and 21 March provided prospective students with a comprehensive summary of the taught and research programmes available at the Warburg, and gave them the opportunity to meet the course directors, and to find out from present and past students what it’s like to study at the Institute. The open days saw three attendees pursue their initial interest right through to application and registration on to the Warburg’s degree programmes for the 2019-2020 intake – a PhD student, and one student each for both MA programmes.

STUDY DAYS, SHORT COURSES AND WORKSHOPS

Two intensive language support classes in Renaissance Latin were offered during 2018-2019 - Beginners (10-21 Sept 2018) and Intermediate (7-11 Jan 2019), taught by Dr Lucy Nicholas, along with weekly two-term classes for beginners and intermediate/advanced.

A workshop on Techniques of Medieval Astrology and a special session of the reading group Esoteric Traditions and Occult Thought Reading Group accompanied the conference Abū Ma’ṣhar al-Balkhī: a ‘philosophus’ in Ninth-Century Baghdad (26 October 2018).

Iris Lauterbach (Zentralinstitut für Kunstgeschichte) offered a research masterclass for graduate students and postdocs/ECRs on Restitution and Re-education: Postwar Cultural Policy for/in Germany: Sources and Methodology, in conjunction with the launch of her book The Central Collecting Point in Munich: A New Beginning for the Restitution and Protection of Art, and in collaboration with the Institute of English Studies (29/30 January 2019).

Uniting several strands of enquiry across the various reading groups in 2018-2019, Rethinking Ancient Pharmacology II examined the editing, adapting and repurposing of ancient medical texts, in Greek, Latin and Arabic (7 May 2019), with Matteo Martelli (Bologna), Caroline Petit (Warwick) and Lucia Raggetti (Bologna), Simone Mucci (Warwick).

The annual training week on Resources and Techniques for the Study of Renaissance and Early Modern Culture, co-organised by the Warburg and the Centre for the Study of the Renaissance, University of Warwick, was hosted on its final day at the Warburg Institute (24 May 2019). The course offers specialist research training for doctoral students working on Renaissance and early modern subjects in a range of disciplines. Warburg sessions this year included learning to ‘read’ visual sources, and Renaissance Studies in an interdisciplinary and international context: the transmission of culture in the Middle ages.
Following a public lecture on 7 June, the workshop Geographies of Cultural Memory, with Professor Carlo Severi (École de Hautes Études en Sciences Sociales, LAS/Collège de France), addressed methodological and historical problems in the study of global visual and aesthetic traditions, by drawing upon Professor Severi’s work on cultural memory and indigenous arts.

Across 17 and 18 June 2019, the Bilderfahrzeuge Project offered a workshop, « Image/Vessel », questioned the notions of ‘image’, ‘thing’ and ‘object’ in space, time, cultures and media by addressing images and vessels with regard to their qualities as carriers and containers.

In collaboration with the Advanced ERC PhilAnd project on the origin and early development of philosophy in tenth-century al-Andalus (University of Louvain), the Warburg offered the Science and Craft workshop on 21 June 2019 on the relations between the theoretical and practical sides of esoteric disciplines in al-Andalus and their link with craft.

And on 24 June 2019 the Warburg hosted Rembrandt: Thinking on Paper, a study day for the British Museum offering an in-depth exploration and re-evaluation of Rembrandt’s graphic œuvre in the 350th anniversary year of his death, and in conjunction with a BM exhibition of Rembrandt’s prints and drawings.

Additional reading classes were offered throughout the year in: Arabic Philosophy (Charles Burnett); Esoteric Traditions and Occult Thought (Charles Burnett and Liana Saif); Classical Greek (Charles Burnett); Latin Paleography (Charles Burnett); Neoplatonic Studies (Georgios Tsagdis, Kingston, and Dilwyn Knox, UCL). And in the summer term 2019, Professor Charles Burnett offered a further series of five classes in Music and the Arts and Sciences in the Renaissance, exploring musical concepts in relation to different arts and sciences (eg. medicine, mathematics and cosmology).

SUMMER SCHOOL

In the week 8-12 July 2019 the Warburg Institute held its inaugural Summer School. Led by Warburg academic staff, with assistance from the National Gallery, the Wellcome Collection and the Victoria & Albert Museum, 18 students from 11 different countries - including senior academics, undergraduates and professional artists - undertook five intensive days investigating the creation of Aby Warburg’s Picture Atlas Mnemosyne, and the influence of his thinking on art history, visual culture and contemporary exhibition practice. The programme included lectures, discussions, guided viewings, and hands-on practical work with materials from the Warburg’s photographic collections as the students created their own present-day version of the Picture Atlas.

The Warburg was able to provide for two full summer school bursaries. A detailed account of the experience of one bursary recipient can be read on the Warburg’s blog.

Some feedback from our Summer School participants:

...it has significantly changed my approach to studies and research - perhaps even the ultimate goal of my studies...

...I joined the Summer School with only the most basic knowledge and understanding of Aby Warburg and the Picture Atlas; I left feeling that I had been given a really thorough introduction, which went far beyond what I anticipated I would learn...

...it has connected me with unfinished work I was doing many years ago that I thought was in the past, but which now feels as though it has a place in the present...

...thank you for making us so incredibly welcome; for being patient with us when we got carried away, and for opening up (so widely) the unique and valuable resources of the Warburg Institute to us - not least of which being the knowledge (and generosity in sharing it) of the staff who worked with us...

TRUST FUNDED EVENTS

Cassal-funded conference: Thinking, Feeling, Knowing in Early Modern France (1 Feb 2019); funded keynote speaker, Éric Méchoulan (Montréal).

SPECIAL EVENTS

21 Feb 2019: Words and Image in Times of Crisis – Special Exhibition. This display of materials from Aby Warburg’s personal collections accompanied the “Word and Image in Times of Crisis” series of events, inspired by Warburg’s scholarly work during the First World War. The public was invited to examine books and documents revealing Warburg’s alarm at the use of images in propaganda and biased reporting. To Warburg, the persuasive potential of the image was appropriated by a manipulative Press to induce anxiety through innuendo and implication. Eager to maintain a critical distance from these practices and to comprehend their psychological underpinning, Warburg analysed similar processes at work in the confessional conflicts of the sixteenth century.

23 April 2019: Fondation Barbier-Mueller – Presentation of New Publications

The Barbier-Mueller Foundation, located at the University of Geneva, holds more than 600 editions of Italian poetry printed between 1480 and 1620. Presentations by:
Professor Brian Richardson: Pietro Bembo. A Life in Laurels and Scarlet, by Marco Faini; Professor Marina Warner: The Italian Renaissance. A Zest for Life, a series of essays by distinguished writers;
Professor Michel Jeanneret: on The Barbier-Mueller Foundation

1 May 2019: Book Launch: Raymond Klibansky and the Warburg Library Network, edited by Philippe Despoix and Jillian Tomm, with the collaboration of Eric Méchoulan and Georges Leroux. With a presentation by Eric Mechoulan

2 July 2019: The Total Archive: Data, Subjectivity, Universality. Launch event for Special Issue of History of Human Sciences, edited by Boris Jardine and Matthew Drage. A volume dedicated to understanding the pressing historical, political, moral and aesthetic issues presented by the totalising knowledge projects of late modernity. Contributors include Rebecca Lemov (Harvard), Daniel Wilson (Alan Turing Institute), Judith Kaplan (Penn), Whitney Laemmli (Carnegie Mellon University) and Cadence Kinsey (York/UCL).

Talks by Professor John Tresch (Warburg Institute), presenting his own research on the aesthetics of total knowledge & Matthew Drage (Warburg Institute) and Boris Jardine (History and Philosophy of Science, University of Cambridge) introducing the key themes of the special issue.

TEACHING AND STUDYING

Joanne Anderson resumed duties as convenor of the MA in Art History, Curatorship and Renaissance Culture on 7 January 2019, after returning from maternity leave. She convened the module, Curating Renaissance Art and Exhibitions, taught in collaboration with the National Gallery, which allows students to curate their own online exhibitions. She supervised two MA dissertations as well as her PhD students. She was mentor to an occasional student.

Charles Burnett taught a free seminar at the Warburg Institute on ‘Music and the Arts and Sciences in the Renaissance’, in June and July (5 sessions). He lectured on the transmission of Arabic science and philosophy to the West for students in the University of Kuala Lumpur (by Skype), and was host for the Medieval Philosophy Network. He supervised the Warburg PhD students: Valentina Cacopardo, Merlin Cox, Hanna Gentili, Juan Acevedo (examination 19 November) and Helena Avelar (examination 26 November), and was external supervisor for Jack Ford (UCL), Joe Dodd (UCL) and Luís Campos Ribeiro (University of Lisbon). He looked after Occasional Students Eleonora Andriani (Lecce), Paul Hullmeine

Sara also supervised 5 PhD students, 2 Occasional Students and 3 Research Fellows.

John Tesch taught “Cosmological Images: Representing the Universe” as an option module to MA students at the Warburg Institute. This seminar crossed the border of history of art and history of science to consider images which represent the universe as a whole. John also advised MA students on various essay topics. In the fall John co-taught “Reviving the Past”, with sessions focused on the reform of language in the Scientific Revolution and on the connections between philology and natural science in early 19th century Germany. Throughout 2018/19 John supervised 4 PhD students and 3 Research Fellows.

TAUGHT POSTGRADUATE PROGRAMMES

MA IN CULTURAL AND INTELLECTUAL HISTORY 1300 – 1650

Four students registered for the MA in Cultural and Intellectual History 1300-1650. A Foundation Week provided an introduction to the Institute and a context for topics to be covered during the year. Over the first two terms students took two core courses in Iconology (Image to Action) and Cultural History (Religion and Society in Italy), and two options chosen from: Cosmological Images: Representing the Universe; Mapping Worlds: Medieval to Modern; Italian Renaissance Painting and the Workshop Tradition. In addition to these courses students took language and palaeography classes and the non-assessed course on Techniques of Scholarship. Students attended skill training sessions held in terms one and two on working with manuscripts, early printed materials, non-British archives and how to apply for a PhD. The third term and long vacation were devoted to the dissertation. All four students completed their studies in Autumn 2019.

MA IN ART HISTORY, CURATORSHIP AND RENAISSANCE CULTURE

Thirteen students registered for the MA in Art History, Curatorship and Renaissance Culture 2018-19, organised and taught in collaboration with the National Gallery London. The convenors were Dr Deirdre Jackson from September to December 2018 and Dr Joanne Anderson from January 2019 onwards. Foundation Week provided an introduction to the Institute and the National Gallery, as well as a context for topics to be covered during the year. Over the first two terms students took three core courses: Image to Action (Art History and Renaissance Culture); Curatorship at the National Gallery; Language, Palaeographical and Archival Studies; and two option modules chosen from: Cosmological Images: Representing the Universe; Curating Renaissance Art and Exhibitions (only open to MA Art History students); Mapping Worlds: Medieval to Modern; Italian Renaissance Painting and the Workshop Tradition. In addition to these modules, students took the non-assessed module, Techniques of Scholarship, the first term being devoted to the skills of reading historical scholarship, the second to the writing skills required for the students’ own scholarship, especially the dissertation. After the language and palaeography exams, the third term and long vacation were devoted to the dissertation, with students presenting on their developing topics in late May as part of the training programme.

Teaching was provided by members of staff and fellows of the Institute and the following National Gallery staff: Dr Susanna Avery-Quash, Dr Rebecca Gill, Dr Nina Cahill, Dr Caroline Campbell, Dr Susan Foister, Dr Joost Joustra, Dr Aoife Brady, Dr Alexander Roestel and Dr Matthias Wivel.
